READY FOR THE BIG FLAG. THE LOFIT POLE AT GRANT'S TOMB SET IN PLACE.

Envying Through the Last Work on Stands and Triumphal Arch—Mrs. Grant's Pacort— Communication with the Ships—Arrival of the City's Guests—National Guard Orders. The big flagpole at Grant's tomb was set up yesterday in the spot selected nine days are by sment Committee. It is octagonal, and two feet is diameter at the base. A square portion nine feet long is imbedded in well-laid concrete. The pole is donated by the Daughters of the Ameriran Revolution. It is made of pine, in two sections, 65 and 85 feet long. The flag to fly from it will be larger than 35 by 50 feet, and the largeest ever flown from a pole, it is said.

Contractor Brady has 340 men at work on the municipal stands at the tomb, and would save more if lumber could be delivered to him faster. As it is, he will have to work Sunday in order to finish his contract. The major part of the supports for all stands are now in place, but the sections nearest the monument have not yet been covered. The chairs to be used on parts of the stands began to arrive yester day. The p'ers of the triumphal arch have been raised, and the bents to support the arch are being framed. The caterers arrived yesterday with ranges and utensile, and a tent for which a platform was necessary.

Private stands continue to appear all along the line of march of the parade. No more per sits for these will be issued after Saturday. The three special inspectors from the Department of Buildings have not yet condemned any stands, although several are being strengthened at their suggestion. These inspectors are working downtown along the line of the parade, having started at the tomb the first of the week. Their chief criticism is on the man ner of putting timbers together. Timbers of satt-factory size and strength have, in some cases, been put together too hastilv and carelessly, sometimes weakening the whole stand, maybe, by one weak joint in it.

The following is the special escort of Mrs. Grant and family: Col. William C. Keeler, Thirty-fith lowa: Col. William Henstreet, Eighteenth Missouri: Capt. H. H. Boyce, Fortyfifth Illinois, and Lient. John Crane, Seventeenth Wisconsin, of the Army of the Tennes see: Brig.-Gen. Edward H. Ripley, Brig.-Gen. J. Fr.d Pierson, Col. Frank C. Freen, and Benjamin Brooke, and Comrade A. Lowden Snowden of the leade Post of Philadelphia, G. A. R. All arrangements for the special trains of the guests of the city from Washington have been completed by A. H. Steele of the Committee on Transportation. The first train will be in his special charge. It will leave Washington at acout 10:30 on Monday, will come over the Fennsylvania lines, and arrive about 4. By this train will travel the President, his family and his Secretary, in President Frank Thomson's private car, and the members of the Diplomatic Corps, with escorting members of the Committee on Reception, in the Pallmans composing the rest of the train. The second train will be in charge of E. V. Skinner, and will carry the Vice-President and the remainder of the invited guests of the city. It will leave at the same time as the first train, but will travel over the Baitlinore and Ohio lines, and arrive about one-haif an hour later.

Definite plans have not been formed, but it has been suggested that all interested should join in the purchase of pumps large enough to handle the water if flooding should again be threat-ened. The water is now under control of such pumps as are used, but with larger pumps it is believed that trouble could have been everted. GLEASON WAS NOT MAYOR.

Permanent Injunction—But Gleason Says He is Not Whipped Yet—A Disorderly Scene Between the Mayor and the Aldermen. When the Assembly passed several Long Island City bills on Tuesday Mayor Gleason, being then in Albany, sent word to his secretary to advertise a public hearing upon the bills, to be held in his office last night at 7 o'clock. On Wednesday another advertisement appeared calling for a public hearing upon some of the same bills, to take place this afternoon at 4

The political opponents of the Mayor, having been defeated in their attempt to prevent the passage of the bills by the Legislature, saw a chance either to tie them up in the courts or delay the hearings until after the Legislature had adjourned. It was known that a majority of the Aldermen, being opposed to Mayor Gleason, would disapprove of the measures.

Former Corporation Counsel Walter J. Foster appeared before Supreme Court Justice Garret son early vesterday morning, and upon affidavits of Peter A. Leininger and J. Rufus Terry, two Long Island City taxpayers, secured an order directing the Mayor and Common Council to show cause before Supreme Court Justice Dickey in Long Island City, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, why they should not be permanently enjoined from holding the two hearings which had been advertised.

Lawyer Foster quoted the Laws of 1895 governing second and third class cities and said that the advertisements must appear in the newspapers for three successive days, exclusive of the day that the bills had passed the Legislature. He contended that the first advertisement published had appeared on the same day that the bills passed. His main argument was that the bills passed. His main argument was that the Long Island City charter provided that the Mayor was only Mayor of the city when within the city limits, and that in his absence the ordinary duties of his office devolved upon the Chairman of the Common Council. As the Mayor was in Albany he could not order the advertisements, and consequently they appeared without authority.

Lawyer Stevens, on the other hand, declared that the action was instituted to defeat the will of the people. He pointed out how meritorious the bills were, being for the building of new schoolhouses, increased expenditure for the firemen, and a third to better facilitate the issuing of revenue bonds against unpaid taxes.

men, and a third to better facilitate the issuing of revenue bonds against unpaid taxes.

If what Mr. Stephens said was true, Justice Dickey answered, it was a grievous affair, but the law on the matter, he thought, was plain, and he granted the injunctions asked for.

Mayor Gleason entered his office at the hour appointed for the hearing for the purpose of notifying such taxpayers as might assemble of the Supreme Court's actien. He found gathered there, besides the seven members of the Board of Aldermen, a number of politicians who are known to be unfavorable to his administration. The Mayor started to announce to the assemblage that there could be no hearing, when William Smith, President of the Common Council, sprang to his feet, and producing his gavel pounded vigorously on the Mayor's desk and shouted:

"Come to order! Come to order! I am Chair-

e to order! Come to order! I am Chair-

shouted:

"Come to order! Come to order! I am Chairman of this meeting! There is no meeting! There is no meeting! There is no meeting! The courts have prevented a meeting, and there must be no interference here," retorted Mavor Gleason.

"Come to order! Come to order!" President. Smith continued to shout, while all the time he kent pounding on the desk with his gavel.

Detective-Sergeant Richard Welsh was in the office and Mayor Gleason ordered him to put Smith out. The detective did not respond very promptly to the demand and Mayor Gleason shouted again: "Put this man out!"

Welsh pushed Smith into his chair, but had no sooner left him than Smith was back at the desk again. The detective then forced Smith to resume his seat, and then Alderman-at-Large Frederick Bowley jumped up, pulled a copy of the injunction from his pocket and served it on Mayor Gleason. Mayor Gleason then ordered the room to be cleared.

After their departure Mayor Gleason telephoned for policemen, and during the night the City Hali remained under guard.

When the Mayor reached his private office he received a telegram from Albany announcing that two more of his bills had passed the Assembly. After reading it he said:

"I am not whipped yet, even if I must remain in Long Island City in order to exercise the functions of my office. If these bills fail, Long Island City will be at a standstill for ten years. New York city will bend itself to the limit of the law and Long Island City will get nothing."

BOUGHT COPPER FOR GOLD.

Old-Time Trick. Samuel H. Graham, weight clerk at the United States Assay Office in Wall street, ound, on Wednesday afternoon, when he had completed the assay of five small metal bars of golden color, which had been brought there by a Frenchman, that the metal was a base compeition, made up chiefly of copper. When their owner, who said his name was Garnier, called for them, in company with an interpreter, he be-came greatly depressed at learning that they were worthless, for he had paid, he said, 10,000 were worthless, for he had paid, he said, 10,000 francs for them.

He had been induced, he added, to invest $2,000 in the spurious gold bars last fall by one dose Gomez, whom he had met at the Hotel de Paris, 75 Christopher street. He sold what Gomez represented as fillings from the gold bars to a jeweller at a rate which made the bars worth $2,000 each. Garnier, when he appealed to the French Consul, was referred to the Police Central Office. There it was said last night that nothing could be done for him.

POLICEMAN CARROLL'S BURGLAR. Boston Crook.

The identification was made through his picture, which was forwarded to Boston a few hours after his arrest. He admits that he was involved in two robberies in Boston, both of which, however, were trifling affairs compared with his Brooklyn adventure. Policeman Carroll has been complimented in general orders over his capture and he is to be the first recipient of the bravery medal. Long's trial has been set down for Monday.
